HUNTING MOOSE

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

IN MAINE WOODS.

The Season of Big Game Opened of Adventure.

Bangor, Me., Oct. 13.-Bangor puts in a claim for "first deer" honors. W. H. Rob-inson of Bangor claims to have headed the list with two plump victims early last Monday morning.

When Mrs. R. A. Messer and Miss Belle Hanson of Bellows Falls, Vt., take to the woods the doomed creatures of the forest bid each other a fond adden and start for the frontier. Both are famous shots for

Mrs. Messer made her debut last year by bagging two deer and a moose near the foot of Jackson Mountain, and it was her first trip in the game section of Maine. Miss Hanson has taken deer three times in as many years, but will not be satisfied this season unless she takes a moose. The Honorable Herbert M. Heath and daughter of Augusta have departed for Eagle Lake. Governor elect John F. Hill and wife have been invited to join the

The enormous moose that has been the wonder of sportsmen in Northern Maine since 1891 has again been seen in the Pine Tree State, and this time under rather dif-ferent circumstances from ever before. A bleyclist came close to the monster in the road between Sherman and Macwahoc, and was obliged to abandon his wheel and climb a tree for safety. So he had a near view

George Kneeland, the aforesald cyclist, thus describes his experience:
"On my way back from Macwahoc, coming to a long piece of rising ground, I dis-mounted from my bicycle and walked. I had got to the top of the hill and was just about to remount when I saw what I took to be a horse standing in the road some distance ahead. Wondering what a horse could be doing there, I stopped and gave him a good look, when I found, to my sur-prise, that it was not a horse, but a moose.

and an immense one, too. I waited a bit to see what he was going to do, but I hadn't long to wait, for he lowered his head and came straight for me with the speed of a locomotive. I got into a good stout tree as quick as I could, and climbed high, where I would be out of reach of the moose's antiers and be able to see what was go-Meanwhile the moose came tearing down the road, and his antiers reached clear across the road at that place, brushing the branches on either side. I should think they would measure 11 feet all right enough. He made straight for the bicycle, and, lanting his forward paws either side of it. stopped to examine the wheel, smelled of it to his satisfaction, then raised his head. gave a tremendous snort and raced off into the woods, breaking down the small growth lowing toward me, and that is probably the reason be did not discover me I waited ten minutes in the tree, and then, finding that he had really gone, I slid down and mounted my wheel, and the way I streaked it for home was a caution."

The average weight of moose shot in Maine is from $60 to 200 pounds, with antiera spreading from 4 to 4½ feet, and rarely having more than eight to twelve points on a side, while the bell, as the appendage un-der the animal's neck is called, is generally 8 or 9 inches long. All who have seen the big moose of Lobster Lake aver that he big moose of Looster Lake aver that his must weigh at least 2,500 pounds; that his antiers spread not less than 10 feet, while the bell is declared to be not less than 18

SUES HER MOTHER.

Woman Wants Back Pay for Years of Housework.

Watertown, N. Y., Oct. 12.—An unusual suit has just been filed in this place. Miss Addle J. rioward has appealed to the courts to assist her n collecting from her mother. Mrs. Amy Ostrander, wages alleged to be due for services in the kitchen.

The plaintiff says that from the time when she attained her majority until she was 35 years old she remained at home and did the housework for her mother, and for these egylices she received practically no remuneration.

remuneration.

Miss Howard demands the sum of $2 a week for the fourteen years she was engaged in the work.

The defendant denies that she owes her daughter anything, and says no contract existed. Mrs. Ostrander and her daughter live on a farm near this city.

Issues Permit for a Frame Sales Stable at Nos. 3434 to 3442 Lindell Avenue.

COMMISSIONER REFUSED IT.

Fine Hand of Abe Slupsky Detected in the Transaction-Neighbors Object to the Proposed Structure.

Mayor Ziegenhein has again overruled Building Commissioner Longfellow, and has issued a permit for the erection of a building which the Commissioner had refused to authorize. The building is objected to by some of the residents of the neighborood, chief among the objectors being Charles Sonnemann, who conducts a carriage factory next door on the east. It is related that Colonel Abe Slupsky's influence moved the Mayor in the matter. The new building is a frame shed on Lindell avenue, between Nos. 2424 and 2442, and is to be used as a horse and mule sales stable. For years this lot has been vacant, except for a frame shed at the rear, exand Sportsmen Are Telling Tales tending eastward some thirty or forty feet from another shed back of No. 342. This shed is open in front and on one side, and has been used by Lawrence Kavanagh as n sales stable.

Recently Mr. Kavanagh applied for permission to build an extension eastward to the building occupied by Mr. Sonnemann. An inspector reported adversely, and Commissioner Longfellow refused a permit. A few days later, however, application was made to the Mayor and the permit was is-sued. It is said that here is where the masic influence of Colonel Shipsky came in. The Colonel declares he did not have a thing to do with the matter, except to es-cort Mr. Kavanagh to Mr. Longfellow's of-fice and say, "Mr. Longfellow, Mr. Kav-aringn.

"I did not go with him to the Mayor's office, and I had nothing whatever to do with the issuance of the permit by the Mayor." fervently declared Colonel Slupsky yesterday.

Work was immediately begun under the Mayor's permit, much to the surprise of Mr.

Sonnemann, who visited the Building Commissioner's office and declared himself rather positively. He was more calm when seen by a Republic reporter yesterday afternoon

"The addition to the shed is an eyesore," he declared, "and no such architecture should have a place on a thoroughfare like Lindell avenue. The addition greatly in-creases the danger from fire. If the sheds were to catch there would be small chance to save anything adjoining them or across the alley at the rear. And then, too, the principle of the thing is wrong. Why should a Mayor override the ruling of the Building Commissioner in such a matter, when there is no good reason for it?"

Mrs. Selberts, who owns the building at No. 342 and also the shed in the rear of that number, declares she has no objection to the new shed, if no nails are driven into her old one.
"I could hardly object," she said, "for I have the same kind of a shed on my own property."

LEAD MINE LOST MANY YEARS. Old Indians Know Its Location, but

Will Not Tell.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.
Reese, Mich., Oct. 12.—Periodically for years the State press has insinuated that a lead mine existed somewhere in the Thumb, but up to date no one has been able to discover it, though prospectors have made oc-but up to date no one has been able to discover it, though prospectors have made occasional trials.

That such a mine does exist, and its location is definitely known by several of the aged Ojibway Indians in the Thumb, is no doubt true, and it is also true that many gallons of fire water have been used to loosen the tongues of these aged Indians regarding the location of the mine. But they have kept the secret well, and, through fear of a superstition that the Great Father will punish his children for divuiging the secrets of his gifts to them, the red men will carry their secret to the grave. Thus the location will remain a secret until discovered by accident.

The editor of the Review, being a finent speaker in the Ojibway, or Chippewa, tongue, interviewed Indian Dave last week on the subject.

Just how many moons Dave has seen rise no one knows. He does not know himself, but, according to his best mental calculation, he is 104 years of age.

The talk was brief and the information gleaned was as follows:

"Before any white man ever lived herelong time before—when the whole country was trees and lakes, and all the Indians had to walk or paddle a canoe to the Government store at the place now called Detroit, where they would trade furs for flour and calito, the Great Father hid Chief Mishawakaa's daughter. She was a very beautiful squaw, all the time singing and laughing like the pretty brook, and all the tribes turned out to find her. They hunted two suns and two moons, and at last found her almost dead, lying near many large rocks, and when she was picked up it was noticed that all around her was lead for the Indians where the lead was. At this council it was decided that he who told of the secret place would be put to death, and for that reason white man will never know where it is."

When asked if it was in Tuscola County, he replied: "No, maybe Huron," and refused to say any more.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 13.—Through the publication of a dispatch from Milwaukee in a St. Paul daily paper, Mis. H. E. Butterfield of this city has discovered that she is $5.00.000 weelther than she had imagined. Mrs. H. E. Butterfield was formerly Miss Belle Griffin of Minneapolis, and in 1800, while upon an excursion to the Pacific Coast, she met and became friendly with another of the party. Thomas P. Harkin of Boston. Their acquaintance, carried on by means of correspondence, ripened into love and they became etgag d. Shortly after the engagement Miss arbitin visited New England with her mother, and the welding was fixed for a few months distant. She then returned home to prepare for the event. Shortly after this Harkin was attacked by severe hemorrhage of the lungs and died. The night before his death he sent for a lawyer, an intimate friend, and had him execute for his affanced a quitchim deed to a mining property in Honduras. After Harkin's death the lawyer communicated with the Honduras Government officials, and his investigation led him to believe that the mining property was not worth the trouble of filing formal transfer papers and he let the matter drop. Last winter, however as the result of syndicate operations, the property greatly increased in value and the autorney, who is now practicing in Detroit, bearned of this fact, and on communicating with the syndispecting Our Customs Service. Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 13.-Collector of the Port Wesley Thomas had a distinguished visitor yesterday in the person of Gigoro Yamacka, Controller of Customs at Kobe Japan, who has been sent to this country by his Government to examine into customs methods and practices in the United States. Controller Yamaoka brought with him a letter of introduction from O. L. Spaulding. Acting Secretary of the Treasury, and Collector Thomas took great pleasure in extending to him all the courtesies and facilities in his power. tending to him all the courtesies and facilities in his power.

The greater part of the morning was spent in the main business room of the Custom-House, where the methods of bookkeeping and general customs business were explained to the eminent foreigner. Later in the day Mr. Yamaoka went down the on the same charge, but never has there been sufficient evidence to convict him. Of late, however, Inspector Murray of Cambridge has been on his trail.

He has found several articles in Boston pawmsheps which belonged to Harvard men, and the pawmbrokers identified Corcoran as the man who sold them. Vesterday there were several charges against Corcoran, but only one was pushed, that being all Judge Almy considered necessary to hold Corcoran.

This charge was the stealing of a gun from Lucien Eaton, a graduate student at Harvard. The entrance to baten's room, which is in Thayer Hall, was effected through the transom. Eaton was sway, but he identified his property, and the pownbroker in whose shop it was found recognized Corcoran.

It develops that there is a regular game of young men about Harvard square who make a business of preying on students.

NEWS OF THE CHURCHES.

The Christian Endeavorers of the Christian churches of the city will hold a senior rally at the First Christian Church Friday evening, October 19, and a junior rally at the Central Christian Church Saturday afternoon, October 20, at 2:30. A chorus of 280 voices will be conducted by W. D. Pittman and the address of the occasion will be delivered by the Reverend Claude E. Hill, State superintendent of the Endeavor work in the Churistian churches of Missouri. There will also be brief addresses by other prominent Endeavor workers.

The International Order of King's Daughters and Sors has perfected arrangements for the State meeting to be held at the First Presbyterian Church, November 7 and 8. Mrs. Bottome and Mrs. Davis are expected to be present and address the convention, and others of distinction will speak.

The ladies of St. Teresa's Parish have decided to give a large fair, October 23 to 25, at the school hall, corner of North Market street and Grand avenue.

The Olive Branch Congregational Sunday School will give a musical and literary entertainment at the church, corner of Sidney and Missouri avenue, to-morrow evening. Professor Nowa will give some illustrations of the magician's art. Mrs. Mary Laughlin, the whistling soloist, will render a few numbers.
